Management information

The multi asset portfolios ended the second quarter with solid positive returns which is in line with global market movements. Allocations across all asset classes have contributed positively to this result, where negative performance in May was made up by the rallies in April and June.

Performance was predominantly driven by our allocations to US and European equities. On the fixed income side, mortgage backed securities and exposure to corporate bonds also contributed to this overall positive result.

The turnover of this this rebalance is relatively low. We increased the equity exposure slightly compared to fixed income to reflect attractive valuations and positive market sentiment.

Within Equity, we continue to keep our overall positive view on the US and increased exposure. We also keep our exposure to US minimum volatility equities because US minimum volatility remains attractive while it adds some resilience. We funded this by Pacific and Japan exposures. We are flat on other equities.

On the fixed income side, the model continues to prefer US credit and US high yield. In the case of EM debt, the signals have slightly improved. As a result, we keep the overweight to US credit and US high yield and reduce the underweight in EM debt. Within treasuries, the model maintains its view on a strong underweight to US duration amid a limited risk premium for duration exposures. Overall duration is at similar level compared to last rebalance.

About the risks: Past returns do not guarantee future returns. The value of the investments and of any yields may vary (partly as a result of changes in exchange rates) and investors may not recover their full investment. A financial product or fund may make use of derivatives, which may generate leverage and result in large fluctuations in value. The financial product or fund may hold a significant amount of financial assets depending on its investment profile. You are reminded that debt instruments are exposed to credit risk, which is the borrower's ability to repay the capital and pay the interest on maturity. The financial product or fund may also be exposed to counterparty risk in the event of bankruptcy of the entity in which the financial product or fund is invested, resulting in monetary loss. The fund manager reduces this counterparty risk by means of collateral. The value or yield of a financial product or fund may fluctuate as a result of economic or financial events or political changes.
